

Revision® Unveils SlingShot™ Ballistic Sunglasses

Battlefield protection with everyday style

Essex Junction, Vermont (for immediate release) – Revision Military, developer of best-in-class ballistic eyewear and trusted by forces around the globe, introduces the new SlingShot™ ballistic sunglasses. Featuring a browless design, off-the-charts anti-fog performance, adjustable and customizable fit, and rapid lens swap capabilities, the SlingShot exceeds stringent military ballistic impact requirements.

At first glance, you'll notice the unique style of SlingShot that delivers numerous advantages over traditional ballistic sunglasses. The browless design allows airflow to provide unparalleled venting and exceptional anti-fog capabilities. Additionally, the design allows for unobstructed views while in a head-down or prone position – perfect for shooting sports applications.

Providing the utmost flexibility and fit, Revision designed SlingShot to work across multiple environments, user demands, and scenarios. The temple arm design works seamlessly with head-borne equipment for optimal comms compatibility and performance in the field while offering all-day comfort. Using our adjustable nosepiece the SlingShot conforms to any nose bridge, providing an optimal fit.

The SlingShot features Revision's innovative I-Vis® lens technology, an advanced dye formulation process resulting in a series of lens tints that markedly enhance visual performance. More than a single solution, I-Vis lenses are available in six tints, each optimized for use in different environments. Each tint is designed to increase contrast and elevate color recognition in specific geographic regions without the negative effects associated with traditional monochromatic lens tints. SlingShot I-Vis lenses come with Revision's OcuMax® anti-fog and scratch coating and are easily swappable.

Available to purchase now at www.revisionmilitary.com, a two-lens SlingShot kit featuring I-Vis Verso and Umbra lenses has an MSRP of $179.99.

ABOUT REVISION

Revision is relentlessly dedicated to protecting vision by developing and delivering purpose-built eye protection for military and tactical use worldwide. The Company has invested in the development and delivery of advanced laser protective solutions over the past decade and become experts in both ballistic laser protective solutions to protect military, law enforcement, and first responders today, as well as the distinct ability to develop custom solutions based upon the unique threat and situation. Revision specializes in integration for the optimum and necessary balance of protection and performance.

Revision Military is headquartered in Essex Junction, Vermont, USA. For more information, visit www.revisionmilitary.com, write media@revisionmilitary.com, or call +1 802.879.7002.

CONTACT

Revision

Matt Crawford

+1 802.879.7002

media@revisionmilitary.com

Above: Revision's new SlingShot™ Ballistic Sunglasses feature a browless design to provide unparalleled venting and exceptional anti-fog capabilities. Additionally, the design allows for unobstructed views while in a head-down or prone position – perfect for shooting sports applications.

Above: Revision's new SlingShot™ Ballistic Sunglasses provide the utmost in flexibility and fit to work across multiple environments, user demands, and scenarios.